Annual Report to Senate from the Academic Integrity Committee

April 26, 2012

Committee Membership:

Patricia Rigg, Emma Cochrane, Robert Pitter, Martin Tango, Rosemary Jotcham

The Senate Academic Integrity Committee met on April 12, 2012. The Committee reviewed its mandate and outstanding items from previous meetings.

Submissions from unit heads regarding their approach to academic integrity had previously been received and reviewed. It was clear from these submissions that units have developed procedures to deal with academic misconduct that best fit their discipline.

The need for the Committee to continue was discussed by the members. It was felt that, although academic integrity is an important subject, the Committee itself may not be required.

The Registrar circulates information to faculty each fall reminding them to stress the importance of the issue and the consequences of academic misconduct to their students and to report any issues of misconduct that arise. The Registrar maintains the list of academic offenders. This information is not shared with the Committee for reasons of confidentiality, but a brief summary could be provided to Senate each year by the Registrar.

Any additional policy requirements related to academic integrity could be undertaken by the Admissions and Academic Standing Committee (Policy).

It was therefore suggested by the members that the Committee be dissolved.

Respectfully submitted on behalf of the Committee,
Rosemary Jotcham

Senate Archives Committee Annual Report (2011-2012)

Background:

The Senate Archives Committee has been without a Chair and Secretary since 2009. As a result, the Committee has not met in the past three years. Although inactive, the Committee membership has continued to be filled with representatives from the student body, faculty, University administration, general research community, and Baptist community.

In 2011, discussions were held concerning the status of this Committee and the possibility of merging with the Senate Library Committee. At that time it was agreed that the Senate Archives Committee and the Senate Library Committee should remain separate.

Recommendations:

1. The Senate Archives Committee remain separate from the Senate Library Committee.
2. The Senate Archives Committee should be rejuvenated.

Report from the Faculty Development Committee.

1. Introduction.

The Faculty Development Committee was inactive for some time during 2009/10. Three faculty members were appointed to look broadly at the issue of faculty development and bring concise observations and recommendations to Senate. The Faculty Development Committee met on several occasions and respectively submit this report to Senate.

2. Faculty Development Committee Mandate.

The Faculty Development Committee was unclear of the precise mandate that the committee had and the specific areas of responsibility under its purview. Consequently the committee took a wide understanding of its role to include any and all areas that could be considered relevant to the development of members of Acadia University's four faculties (Arts, Science, Professional Studies & Theology). The committee excluded from its orbit of thought any person not appointed onto the faculty of Acadia University in a permanent contract, tenure track or tenured position. In doing so the committee also recognized that recommendations could also be applied to other teaching 'faculty' at the discretion of either Senate or the relevant Deans.

In particular our Justification for reviewing the FDC's mandate was prompted by the fact that the Senate Research Committee (SRC) duplicates the 'research' element of our mandate. The SRC is more widely representative of the university community and so is better equipped to handle issues directly relating to faculty research. Thus, the first recommendation of the Faculty Development Committee (FDC) is that we request that the FDC's mandate be revised to exclude 'research'. This will allow us to focus more clearly on teaching development. The rationale being that quality of teaching and development of faculty teaching credentials as professional educators is core to the success of Acadia University and an expectation of students. The second recommendation is therefore that the mandate of this committee be altered to include to promotion of development of good pedagogical skills and qualifications within the university faculty as a priority area.

3. Development challenges.

The FDC discussed at length the nature of challenges and barriers to uptake to positive development of teaching skills within the university faculty. One immediate observation was that, with the exception of the Department of Education, it was not clear at all that many members of faculty had benefitted from being trained professionally as educators or teachers in their fields. This was noted as an observation that the committee would like the senate to be aware of together with the recognition that the role of professor and subject matter expert should be complimented by professional training in teaching.

The committee was also concerned to know some key facts that related to resources deemed by the committee as important to improving the opportunity to develop faculty.

These are:

(a) What has been the effect of reducing the Learning Commons teaching on faculty development?

(b) What was the take up in previous years on professional development offered through the university?

(c) What are the replacement 'vehicles' for internal training?

The answers to these questions were not known and subject to further work by the committee as a means of shedding light upon the need to improve development of faculty.

The anecdotal evidence suggested that the Learning Commons played a significant part in offering options for educational development for faculty. The committee therefore decided that in order to fill at least some of the void created by the recent loss of the Learning Commons, the FDC undertakes to develop a series of workshops on teaching, where we draw on the strengths of existing faculty who have been identified as particularly good teachers, who use innovative pedagogical techniques, and/or make use of innovative technologies in the classroom. It is envisioned that these workshops will provide an opportunity for faculty to share ideas around best practice. To this end, we intend the workshops to be somewhat informal and dialogical, with each workshop to be followed by a social event to further strengthen conversations and collaboration around teaching at Acadia. Strengths of teaching expertise and innovation should be showcased to ALL members of faculty. This is the third recommendation.

4. Technology

In addition to the development of teaching skills the committee recognized that many students had a better grasp of technology and its application within the classroom than the member of faculty who was teaching. This was seen as a real concern and therefore the committee sees the development of faculty in use of technology within an educational environment as critical to professional competency.

In terms of technology training as a subset of best teaching practice we suggest the use of virtual communities, social media, blogs, ACORN, and integrating technology into teaching styles. The committee recommends that all faculty reach a minimum standard of operational knowledge in these areas.

5. Development through research.

In regards to Research the first question that the committee sought to answer was 'is this our area?'. If the answer is yes, then do we ask for research as part of professional development to be in areas likely to benefit the university and society rather than unconnected 'novelty' research? The committee seeks to take advice in this area from members of Senate.

Timetable, Instruction Hours and Examinations Committee

Report to Senate for June 2012

The TIE Committee met electronically between November and December to discuss Calendar Dates. The dates received approval, by Senate, at the December meeting on December 12, 2011. There were no other issues brought to the TIE Committee during the 2011/2012 Academic Year.

It is the recommendation of the TIE (Timetable, Instruction Hours and Examinations) Committee that the Committee be disbanded and the duties of that Committee be the responsibility of the Registrar's Office. From the Registrar's Office perspective, we agree to assume the committee's responsibilities and that the Registrar will be available to act as a liaison to Senate regarding these issues wherever required. Therefore, the committee recommends that it cease to exist as a standing committee of Senate. There should be wide consultation with faculty to be sure that there is still input, but the consultation would be done differently via the Registrar's Office rather than through the committee structure.

MEETINGS DATES

Five full committee meetings were held during 2009-2010 on the following dates:

November 6, 2009
November 16, 2009
March 9, 2010
April 1, 2010
May 26, 2010

Numerous other meetings were also held between the SPAC Chair, Secretary, and Manager of Scholarships & Financial Assistance to decide upon various awards and matters.

AGENDAS, DISCUSSIONS and CONCLUSIONS

The following represents the main agenda topics:

1. Acadia Excellence Scholarship Program

The Committee re-affirmed their commitment to the Acadia Excellence Scholarship program with the inclusion of renewable monies for each of the four scholarship tiers. The scholarship tier levels depend on the grades of the incoming students.

2. Entrance Scholarship Application Process

As high school ranks are increasingly difficult to obtain, it was decided that this was no longer required by the incoming student and the entrance scholarship files would be ranked by weighted average for review of the top 150 files by the Committee.

The Committee also reviewed the use of the information collected on the scholarship information form and endorsement forms and for what average tier levels the information would be required. Changes were made to the scholarship information form questions.

3. Student Access to Numeric Grades for Scholarship Renewability

The University conditions of renewability refer to numeric benchmarks but students have access to only gpa and letter grades. The University needs to move toward students being able to access their numeric grades for scholarship purposes.

4. Entrance Scholarship Offers

To be competitive with other universities, our top entrance scholarships have been named and valued as follows:

- Chancellor's Scholarships valued at $10,000 renewable
- Board of Governor's Scholarships valued at $7,500 renewable
- Nova Scotia High School Tuition Scholarships valued at $6,652 renewable
- President's Scholarships valued at $5,000 renewable
- International Baccalaureate Scholarships valued at $3,000 renewable

5. Awarding of 2010 Entrance Scholarships

Acadia offered entrance scholarships to 879 students of the incoming class for September 2010. This included renewable entrance scholarship offers to students with high school averages above 80% and transfer student applicants (in their first undergraduate degree) to Acadia. The top three tiers included a value towards the cost of residence. The acceptance rate for 2010 was 44% with 379 accepting their entrance scholarships (approximately 1.1 M).

SENATE CURRICULUM COMMITTEE REPORT JUNE 18, 2012

Membership

May Abou Zahra (FA, attended the first meeting); Emma Cochrane (student representative); Leo Elshof (FPS); Rosemary Jotcham (Registrar); Chris Killacky (ADC); David McMullin (FPAS); Anne Quéma (FA); Rob Raeside (FPAS); Roxanne Seaman (FPS); Ann Smith (Library); Sarah Sweet (student representative for Kyle Power).

Mandate

The SCC reviewed curriculum submissions from the Faculties of Arts, Professional Studies, and Pure and Applied Science. For the benefit of new and returning members of the Committee, the first meeting began with a review of the mandate of the Committee as stipulated by Senate's Constitution. The mandate of the Committee is to recommend curriculum proposals for approval at Senate. In preparing these recommendations, the Committee members ensure that coherence and clarity are maintained while programs and courses are modified.

Process, comments, and two major issues

Generally, the SCC consulted with several schools and departments to address minor problems such as the need to clarify the terms of curriculum proposals, or the need to meet the 60 word requirement for course descriptions. In all cases, the objectives are to ensure that students have access to clear and accurate information, and that programs maintain descriptive coherence.

Comment # 1: While it is not the Committee's mandate, let alone power, to make economic recommendations, the Committee's members wish to note that, in some cases, modifications were made to the curriculum in response to faculty reduction and / or resource reduction.

Comment # 2: With regard to interdisciplinary minors in BSc and BScH, Emma Cochrane and the Committee note that some courses in the interdisciplinary minors require extensive prerequisites. Students need to be advised on this matter.

Comment # 3: The SCC has modified language in question 18.c in curriculum forms 1 and 3 so as to replace the reference to "library staff" with "liaison librarian for the program."

- A major issue concerned the decision of the Faculty of Pure and Applied Science to modify its language requirement. The proposal was to replace the required "6 h English or one language other than English" with "6h from the Faculty of Arts selected from the courses with a significant writing component as listed at www.science.acadiau.ca/sigwrtingcourseslist or 6 h of a single language other than English." The SCC invited Peter Williams, Patricia Rigg, Barry Moody, and Romira Worvill to a meeting where the proposal could be debated and clarified. To sum up, P. Williams described the consultation process in the FPAS that led to the formulation of the proposed change, and stated that the chief objectives are to ensure that Science students develop significant reading and writing skills, and that they have access to a variety of courses suiting their interests. These include English courses, language courses, but also other Arts courses with a significant writing component. B. Moody argued that the practical rationale for making this change is to address the backlog of students who need to fulfill this requirement. P. Rigg and R. Worvill underlined the benefits that students derive from taking English and Languages courses (out of 24 students currently majoring in German, 7 are taking double majors in science). P. Rigg noted that first-year courses in English are capped for pedagogical reasons.

- At the end of January 2012, the members of the SCC had the opportunity to discuss Professor Zamlynny's proposal to add two questions to the curriculum form dealing with modifications to an existing course (1. Has the proposed modification been discussed with the course instructor? And 2. If yes, does the course instructor approve of the modification?). While appreciating the issue that Professor Zamlynny raised, the SCC decided not to sponsor his May 9, 2012. The motion of can be interpreted as reopening a process that will presumably have taken place within the department, the school, or the program. The proposal would indirectly redefine the SCC's mandate by ascribing to the Committee the capacity to function as an appeal body. Such a redefinition is not in the interest of faculty members.

Recommendations

The SCC recommended the adoption of the following resolutions:

1. That the curriculum changes for the Faculty of Arts be approved.
2. That the curriculum changes for the Faculty of Professional Studies be approved.
3. That the curriculum changes for the Faculty of Pure and Applied Sciences be approved.

Furthermore, the SCC recommended that:

in the event of major interfaculty as well as interdisciplinary curriculum changes or innovations, a mechanism and structure be established that will ensure that proper consultation take place among Faculties.

Rationale: While the SCC recommends the Faculty of Pure and Applied Science's curriculum change for Senate's approval, its members are concerned that incomplete communication took place between the FPAS and the FA before the change to the language requirement was submitted to the SCC. It is also the view of the members of the Committee that the SCC is not currently mandated to monitor major interfaculty curriculum changes. The problem is as follows: in the case of curriculum changes affecting two programs, the SCC routinely invite members of the schools and departments concerned to discuss the proposals. However, in the case of major changes affecting two or more faculties, the SCC is not in a position to decide who should be selected to discuss an interfaculty curriculum change.

Outcome

The recommendation was split into two separate motions that were passed by Senate on May 9, 2012. The Academic Program Review Committee has been asked to propose to Senate a mechanism and structure fostering proper consultation among Faculties in the course of major interfaculty curriculum changes. Further, the APRC's forthcoming recommendations for the recently reviewed WGST program may serve as suggestions for the improvement of processes and structures in the context of interdisciplinary and transdisciplinary programs.

Board of Open Acadia

Annual Report to Senate for 2011-12

August 30, 2012

Board Members for 2011-2012:

Dr. Tom Herman, Vice-President Academic, Chair

Dr. Robert Perrins, Dean of Arts

Dr. Peter Williams, Acting Dean of Pure and Applied Science

Ms. Mary MacVicar, Associate Vice-President Finance and Treasurer

Vacant, Student Representative

Dr. Jeffrey Banks, Acting Director of Open Acadia

The Board of Open Acadia did not meet over the 2011-12 academic year.

Open Acadia had a busy and successful completion to the 2011-2012 year. Online course offerings continued to grow, with 2011-2012 enrollment increases of 22% in online undergraduate courses and 15% in online graduate courses. Like many other institutions in Canada, we see this upward trend in online and blended learning continuing in 2012-2013, and beyond. Evidence for the competitive nature of online courses was seen by the fact that the number of exams proctored for other institutions more than doubled in the past year. Undergraduate and Graduate Intersession continued to be strong, with more than 80 undergraduate courses delivered this past year, and more than 40 courses in the Summer Institute for Graduate Education. Enrolment in the TESOL and French Proficiency programs also remained strong.

The growth experienced in the English for Academic Purposes (EAP) program last year has slowed due to a redirection of students from one geographic region by their Cultural Bureau. This, along with a targeted international recruiting strategy made possible by moving recruiting resources to Enrolment Services has allowed for a diversification of the EAP program. It is felt that this will make for more dynamic and enriched classroom environments for students and teachers alike as well as allowing for more sustainable growth in the future. The 3000 Bridging level (first piloted in 2009) continues to be a successful and rewarding experience for students. The percentage of students that graduate from this level remains between 70-80%, and more than 90% of these students continue on to degree programs in the Acadia credit program. Credit courses that are offered in the Bridging level continue to be taken from the Faculty of Arts, and the number of professors expressing interest in teaching these courses has increased. We now have a potential group of 6 or 7 professors who would be willing to teach for the EAP Bridging level – a great success for the EAP program.

Open Acadia continues to work closely with Schools and Departments to offer flexibility to our students via innovative programming options. The growth in online and distance delivery of programs and courses has had a significant effect on our human resource capacity. Given the continuing growth in demand for delivery of programs to geographically dispersed students, we are actively researching online tools that will enhance the personalized education experience that our faculty can provide for students. The competitive nature of this area demands that we continue to keep pace with quality of Instructional Design within this space.

As our enrollment and programs expand, Client Service Staff continue to streamline processes to ensure our diverse learners receive the excellent service they have come to expect.

Other activities of OA and its partners that would be of interest to Senate include:

- The School of Education has started two new graduate Counselling cohorts for PEI (through an innovative collaboration with UPEI) and in the Cape Chignecto region of the province (in support of the CCRSB School Board). Other specialized cohorts are set to start this year for Music Educators (one cohort focusing on Elementary and another on Secondary), as well as for a cohort of educators wanting to focus on Creativity in Teaching.
- In collaboration with the School of Education and the Dalhousie College of Medical Education, the second M.Ed. cohort for Health Interprofessionals is set to begin in the fall of 2012.
- Open Acadia is also working with the School of Education, the Nova Scotia Department of Education, and multiple Academic Units within Acadia on a number of new Certificate Programs for NS teachers, including ones in support of teachers in Family Studies, Middle School Mathematics, and Computer Science.
- Our affiliations with the Dalhousie School of Nursing (Yarmouth Site), 14 Wing Greenwood, and the Class Afloat program also continue, with courses being offered through Open Acadia throughout the coming year.
- Acadia Lifelong Learning Centre - ALL continues to be a very important program, not only for Open Acadia, but also for the University. Our 2012-13 slate of courses are scheduled and the program will launch at the annual potluck event on August 29th, 2012. Based on an enthusiastic response to surveys, we are providing a slightly different array of courses this year, focusing on our members' suggestions, including more courses off-campus in an effort to reach out to members who do not live within Wolfville.
- Beijing Normal University - In July, 2012, Acadia hosted 28 students from Beijing Normal University – Zhuhai (BNUZ) for a 4 week program of English Language studies, Canadian culture classes, and facilitated field trips around Nova Scotia. This successful program marked the beginning of an important relationship between BNUZ and Acadia. The programming not only improved their English, but it also gave them the opportunity to immerse themselves in Acadia's true spirit of community and achievement. As a result of this program, at least five students applied and were offered admission to attend Acadia full-time in the 2012-13 academic year.
- Canadian Coast Guard College - The Department of Fisheries and Oceans renewed its $212,000 contract with Open Acadia for delivery of the 2012-13 Physical Education program at the Canadian Coast Guard College in Sydney, NS. Classes began in September.
- Huggins High School Science Seminar - The 27th Annual Huggins High School Science Seminar was held on Friday, May 4th, with 70 high school students from around the province in attendance. In 2012, the theme was "Dive Into Science", with presentations from Dr. Maia Hoeberechts of NEPTUNE Canada, Richard Zurawski, Dr. Michael Stokesbury, and Dr. Vlad Zamlynny, and a very successful Lifeboat Debate.

Operationally, Open Acadia continues to manage program costs very well, and both undergraduate and graduate credit programs finished the fiscal year impressively, with increases over projected revenues and a good standing on year-over-year expenses. Open Acadia's net contribution to the University for 2011-12 continued to exceed previous years and grew in excess of %45 this year (surpassing budget expectation by %35). As always Open Acadia credits the quality and enthusiasm of its Academic partners for any success.

DRAFT REPORT FROM ACADEMIC PLANNING AND PRIORITIES COMMITTEE TO SENATE – MAY 9, 2012

SUMMARY OF ACTIVITIES

The committee met on 16 occasions between September 15, 2011 and April 25, 2012. Agendas, minutes, relevant materials and collected data were placed on a Sharepoint site for the committee.

The first meeting was taken up with organizational issues, but the committee quickly identified the need to review the University Strategic Plan and conduct a “State of the Unit” survey. The committee also identified the need to gather “best practices” information from other universities. Discussion of the exact wording and format for the State of the Unit survey occupied much time over subsequent meetings.

At the October 27 meeting the committee passed four motions that determined its direction for the next series of meetings. First, a discussion of the APPC’s work was to be added to the agenda of the three Faculty Councils, (actions which did take place). Second, a discussion of the APPC was to be added to the agenda of the next Faculty meeting. Third, a university Town Hall meeting was to take place to discuss the APPC as well. The latter two actions were to have taken place following the results of the Unit Surveys, so discussions could be productively guided. Finally, the APPC agreed to generate a flow map and time-line of the current formal and informal planning processes at Acadia.

In early November the committee discussed the possibility of compiling an online survey on Academic Planning at Acadia and continued to work on the wording of the Unit Survey. The committee also decided at this time to present the draft version of the Unit Survey to the Faculty Councils.

Meetings of the committee through-out the fall term saw ongoing discussions over whether or not the committee should make recommendations, and if so, what form those recommendations should take (see the minutes of the meeting of December 8). These discussions continued into April. However, at the meeting of December 8, the Committee did agree that: 1) we had neither ruled in nor ruled out recommendations; 2) we would let the conversation go where it wants to go and; 3) if we did subsequently agree on a recommendation that it would be acceptable to make it in the report.

The State of the Unit survey was completed by the end of the year and distributed in January. It was at this time that the committee experienced a turnover in membership and difficulties in finding a meeting time that could accommodate all the new members.

Meetings in early 2012 focused on reviewing the Strategic Plan and compiling the Planning Flow Chart. By the time of the February 20 meeting, the committee co-chairs had received 22 responses to the Unit Survey. The Committee then formed five sub-committees to identify the themes arising from the survey responses. By the middle of April the Committee had compiled summaries of the survey responses, collected information of planning processes at other universities, completed the academic planning time line and flow charts.

At the April 25 meeting, the committee passed the following motion: “The APPC requests from Senate a one-month extension of its mandate in order to provide a set of options for academic planning at Acadia University”.

Additional materials, including the mandate of the committee and reports from subcommittees addressing a) the unit survey, b) existing Acadia academic planning processes and timelines, and c) scan of planning processes at other universities, are attached.

1. Mandate of Academic Planning and Priorities Committee -

This ad hoc committee shall serve at the pleasure of Senate, for a period not to exceed one year. The committee’s composition, mandate, and procedures shall be reviewed by Senate no later than the May 2012 Senate meeting, at which point the committee might be disbanded completely, continued in the same or modified form, or replaced with a standing committee.

Duties:

This committee’s goal shall be to gather and synthesize information relevant to identifying the ongoing academic goals and priorities of the University. In pursuit of this goal, the committee shall:

- (1) Consult widely with all relevant sectors
- (2) Foster discussions at all levels of the academic sector
- (3) Maintain channels of communication with Faculty Councils. For example, the committee might encourage units, faculties and interdisciplinary Programs to engage in self-studies to identify their short-term and long-term plans and priorities; it might facilitate discussion and sharing of information across units, faculties and Programs; it might conduct broad-scale surveys, town hall meetings, etc., to gather information and opinions from across campus.
- (4) Endeavor to provide relevant data to all those who need it to inform these discussions (e.g., financial information; enrolment information; information from other institutions; information from other committees, etc.).

Through its chairs, the committee shall report regularly to Senate on its procedures and its progress throughout the year, with the initial report on the procedures and mapping of how the committee will function to come to Senate no later than October 2011. Its goal shall be to begin to forge some consensus across the academic sector regarding where we are now, where we want to be in the future (e.g., five years from now), and how we can best get to where we want to be, given relevant constraints and opportunities.

2. Unit Surveys

Unit Survey Questions

- 1) The mission of Acadia University is “to provide a personalized and rigorous liberal education; promote a robust and respectful scholarly community; and inspire a diversity of students to become critical thinkers, lifelong learners, engaged citizens, and responsible global leaders.”

Please describe to what extent this mission is being fulfilled/supported by:

- a) University
- b) Administration

- c) Your Faculty
  - d) Your Unit/Program
- 2) Does your unit/program use Acadia University's current Strategic Plan?
[ ] Yes                    [ ] No
If no, please explain why not.
If yes, explain the extent and ways in which the Strategic Plan influences your unit/program's academic planning.
What are the shortcomings of the Strategic Plan?
- 3) What are the most important formal and informal academic planning processes for your unit/program?
a) Which aspects of the current academic planning processes work well for your unit/program?
b) Which aspects of the current academic planning processes do not work well for your unit/program?
c) What suggestions do you have that may enhance the planning processes at Acadia University?
- 4) Within the overall context of Acadia University, what are your unit/program's most important academic goals and priorities (short-term and/or long-term)?
a) Staffing
b) Course offerings
c) Equity
- 5) What are the most significant challenges (resource-related and structural) that are currently facing your unit/program? In the event that your unit/program is experiencing particular challenges, please provide suggestions for improvement.

Identified Themes in the State of the Unit Responses

Each member of the committee reviewed the documents on their own, then the group met together to discuss and determine the themes. After a lengthy conversation the following themes and potential solutions were identified:

- 1) Theme: Need for guiding principles in all decision-making due to concerns that decisions are being made only from a financial point of view.
Implication(s): Determination of a set of guiding principles for the university to insure decisions are made in the best interest of the mission.
- 2) Theme: While most agree with the goals and overall message of the 2006 strategic plan, it is rarely consulted. There is a disconnect between the current reality and the plan.
Implication(s): Review and/or reaffirm the strategic plan. Insure that mission driven planning is taking place in the academic sector. Insure that plans for research, fundraising, technology, distance education, etc. are considered and incorporated.

- 3) Theme: Support for the current administration and Deans was evident, however there are still concerns regarding communications, assessment and transparency.
Implication(s): Improve mechanisms for communication between the levels (admin, deans, heads/directors, faculty, staff) and across faculties and sectors, including Open Acadia. Develop new models for communication: network vs. top down and bottom up. Increase the opportunities for communication for Heads/Directors, formal or informal.
- 4) Theme: Personalized education is being threatened. Much concern regarding the arbitrariness of Complement MOU in the CA.
Implication(s): Importance of communication and leadership at all levels.
- 5) Theme: Concerns that we are in survival mode, only “coping” rather than exercising thoughtful planning. Constant state of crisis.
Implication(s): Importance of communication and leadership at all levels. Emphasize the need for an overall plan.
- 6) Theme: Structural/Procedural inefficiencies or barriers: timetabling, technology limiting best practices (e.g. cross listing courses), use of FCE allocations, outdated rooms and labs, aging lab equipment.
Implication(s): Review of the internal processes.
- 7) Theme: Focus on excellence and student engagement. Importance of the autonomy of the units to deliver and adapt programs, contrasted with concerns about silo mentality and entrenchment.
Implication(s): Support and retain faculty, encourage dialogue.
- 8) Theme: Frustration with unit reviews, inability to implement recommendations, length of the process, accreditation requirements.
Implication(s): Revisit the process, look for efficiencies or improvements. Connect diagnostic elements of unit reviews to decision-making processes.
- 9) Theme: Lack of an administrative home, and support and direction for IDST.
Implication(s): Action to insure the sustainability and success of these programs.
- 10) Theme: Perceived lack of an overall plan, and of leadership/direction in how the institution moves forward.
Implication(s): A plan needs qualitative/non-financial indicators included.

3) Review of the current formal and informal planning processes at Acadia

The following summarizes our review and analysis of existing planning and related processes at Acadia. A summary set of flow charts and timeline is attached as Appendix 1.

- a) Observation/Findings: Many of the internal processes used to manage the availability and deployment of resources needed for the execution of academic timetables are not effectively integrated or synchronized at an institutional level. For example, despite the potential for adverse impacts on faculty availability and timetabling of courses, the deadlines for application and consideration of Leave of Absence versus Sabbatical Applications are out of synch.

Conclusion: Given the importance of these processes, both for individual faculty and for collective academic planning, and the potential for adverse impacts on in-year planning, synchronization and/or integration of these two (and related) process would improve resource to task allocation for academic planning and timetabling purposes.

- b) Observation/Findings: There are several external (e.g., stakeholder) and internal (e.g., budget, fundraising, etc.) processes which appear to interface with academic planning in what can only be described as an ad hoc fashion.

Conclusion: Given the interdependencies between resource availability/allocation to the academic sector with regard to the effectiveness of both in-year and forward academic planning, it is considered critical that:

- i) External processes be synchronized with internal processes wherever possible, and
  - ii) The interdependencies of internal non-academic sector processes be integrated or synchronized with the academic sector planning processes.
- c) Observation/Findings: The interface between regular semester planning/timetabling with Open Acadia intersession planning/timetabling processes is not currently synchronized with other supporting processes.

Conclusion: Given the interdependencies of these processes, and the significance of Open Acadia for student progression in particular faculties (e.g., science and business), the current manner in which these are coordinated at the institutional level is considered sub-optimal and needs to be addressed.

- d) Observation/Findings: Many of the internal supporting processes (e.g., budgeting, physical infrastructure allocation) which impact academic planning do not appear to have been effectively coordinated at the institutional academic level.

Conclusion: Given the critical nature of these processes, in terms of how they enable or constrain academic timetabling/planning, informed, inclusive, and considered coordination is required to effectively support and enhance the academic sector.

- e) Observation/Findings: There is a lack of consensual understanding of academic planning processes across the institution.

Conclusion: Given the importance of these processes to the academic sector and the institution as a whole, a concerted effort must be made to ensure broad dissemination of academic planning processes across the institution as a whole.

4) Planning practices at other universities

The Committee conducted an informal survey of various academic institutions in both Canada and the USA to develop a sense of the type of planning processes that were in place at other institutions.

The survey is by no means comprehensive and we did not collect information on how well these processes were perceived to be working at their respective institutions. We were also mindful of the fact that there is a significant difference in the governance models between Canadian and US institutions.

Nevertheless, some common themes did emerge from our work:

- a) Of the (9 Canadian, 5 US) universities surveyed all had a planning committee.
- b) All have fairly broad representation from various sectors.
- c) Most Canadian institutions have the committee primarily as a Senate body, although McMaster is a notable exception.
- d) Some are more focused in the academic sector while some are more pan institutional.
- e) All universities state that they integrate their planning documents on a short and long term basis.
- f) Most universities state that they use their planning documents to evaluate themselves.

A detailed review of practices by institution is attached as Appendix 2.

Three motions from the Dean of Research & Graduate Studies, on behalf of the Senate Graduate Studies Committee:

- (a) That the following restriction be placed on adjunct professors and other potential external thesis examiners:

An adjunct professor or other individual who has previously taught the student in a graduate level course, or who has been involved with the student's graduate-level research, cannot serve as an external reader for this student. This is also the case if they taught the student at the undergraduate level within the last four years. Furthermore, it is inappropriate to appoint an external reader who has worked in a collaborative research relationship or co-authored publications with the student's supervisor within the last two years. If these circumstances hold for an intended external examiner, the onus is on the supervisor to explain why this individual is the only reasonable choice. The final decision rests with the Dean of Research and Graduate Studies, in consultation with the appropriate graduate coordinator (or unit head/director, where the graduate coordinator is the supervisor).

- (b) That the following change of wording be adopted concerning Acadia Graduate Awards:

Former wording (Calendar)

In order to be eligible for an award, students must have a GPA not less than 3.00 in their major field in each of their last two years of undergraduate study

New wording

In order to be eligible for an award, students must have a GPA not less than 2.67 in their major field in each of their last two years of undergraduate study

- (c) That the following change of wording be adopted concerning the time limits of curriculum for graduate students:

Former wording (not including the MEd):

All requirements for the degree must be completed within four years of completion of course requirements.

New wording (not including MEd):

All requirements for 2-year degree programs (all Science, Recreation Management, Social and Political Thought) must be completed within six years of first registration. All requirements for graduate degrees in Arts, not including Social and Political Thought, must be completed within five years of first registration.
