CURRENT VOTING MEMBERS = 52

CURRENT QUORUM = 27

Note: The position of Chair is open to ex officio members of Senate, Senators, and Faculty members who are not Senators. Should an ex officio member of Senate be elected as Chairperson, there shall be no adjustment to the composition of Senate; should a Faculty member of Senate be elected as Chairperson, a replacement member shall be elected from the Faculty to which the Chair belongs; should a member from the Faculty at large be elected, there shall be no adjustment to the composition of Senate.

Procedures for Appointment:

Chairperson – Nominated by Senate Nominating Committee after a call to Senate and all Faculty. Elected by Senate in May to begin term in July

Deputy-Chair - Nominated by Senate Nominating Committee, after a call to all Senators. Elected by Senate in May to begin term in July

Board of Governors - three representatives nominated and elected by BOG, term expires on September 30 of each year.

Faculty:

Pure and Applied Science - Six departments choose their representative by consensus. The three schools of Applied Science, Computer Science, and Nutrition and Dietetics have by tradition been represented by their Directors, and the Constitution of the FPAS states that they should be represented by their Directors. HOWEVER, the Senate Constitution, Appendix A: Membership, 7:3, which is based on the Acadia Act, states that “each School shall be guaranteed one place on Senate, the appointee to be named by the School concerned and chosen in a manner determined by the individual schools”. As the Senate Constitution is what determines Senate membership, individual Schools could decide to choose a representative other than the Director if they wished, notwithstanding the FPAS Constitution. The FPAS Constitution should likely be changed to bring it into line with the Senate Constitution.

Arts - Nine members are elected within the Faculty of Arts.

Professional Studies – by tradition and the FPS Constitution, the Director/Head of each Academic unit plus one additional member elected each from School of Business Administration, School of Education, and School of Kinesiology; and one member at large elected by the Faculty of Professional Studies. Again, though, the Senate Constitution states that Schools are free to choose their representatives in a manner they determine; therefore, individual schools could decide to choose their representatives differently if they so desired.

Theology - one member elected from within the Faculty of Theology

Professional Librarian - one representative nominated and elected by Professional Librarians

Lay People – One Mi'kmaw Lay Person nominated by the Mi'kmaq Bands in the community and two members nominated by the Senate Nominating Committee after a call to all Senators, Faculty, and staff, and elected by Senate. They must not be eligible for membership in Senate in any of the other roles or categories, and must not be full-time employees of Acadia.

Graduate Student - chosen by the Graduate Students' Association

SRC Student reps - chosen by the Acadia Students' Representative Council. By tradition, one has been the Student V-P Academic, and one has been chosen to represent each of the faculties of Arts, Pure and Applied Sciences, and Professional Studies. However, the exact nature of these four representatives is up to the SRC, and is not mandated by Senate.

Theology Student rep – normally chosen by the Acadia Divinity College Student Association; if that group is not able to make an appointment in a timely fashion in a given year, the position may be chosen by the Dean of Theology.

Makeup of Senate (59 positions, including Deputy Chair; number of members may be fewer in any given year, if one person occupies more than one role)

Terms of Reference:

The purpose of the committee is to explore methods for (1) collecting student course feedback, and (2) supporting faculty in improving course and teaching effectiveness. The following activities may guide the committee's work:

- Conduct two surveys, one for students and one for faculty members, related to how student course feedback may be gathered and how course and teaching effectiveness may be best reflected upon and assessed.
- Review existing practices at Acadia and other institutions.
- Review the literature related to student surveys of courses and teaching, particularly in the areas of effectiveness of surveys, bias, and equity.
- Recommend to Senate new processes to replace current student surveys, which may include: development of new student surveys, development of teaching dossier templates, development of faculty self-reflection documents related to teaching activities, classroom observations from peers and/or academic administrators, mentoring programs, and/or attendance at professional development programming.
- Identify other bodies or committees that may be best positioned to complete tasks related to recommended processes.
- Liaise with the AUFA and the University Administration to identify parts of the Collective Agreement that would need to be revisited in order for the university to implement any recommended processes.
- Liaise with Technology Services to identify possible integration of some of the recommended processes into the new Colleague system.
- Complete other activities that members of the committee deem beneficial.
- Report back to Senate in June 2022. Report shall include highlights of survey results, status of process recommendations, and status of committee work. The committee shall recommend whether its mandate should be extended for an additional year.

Motion passed by Faculty Council on May 4, 2021:

Faculty Council recommends that Senate undertake a complete review of the student survey process and purpose, with the goal of creating more equitable and informative surveys, and/or establishing additional/alternative processes to help support faculty members in maximizing their teaching effectiveness.

Notes/ Issues to Consider (not an exhaustive list):

- The Collective Agreement states that “Candidates shall present evidence of their teaching activities as part of their dossier. Where the evidence relates to classroom performance, it should be based on direct observation by peers and/or academic administrators or by student surveys as in Article 17.02 A (n).”
- Under the current CA, faculty members are required to administer student surveys, and summaries of the numerical data has to be included in their renewal, tenure, and promotion (RTP) documents.
- There is ample evidence to suggest student surveys can be biased and do not always provide a good assessment of student learning. These issues apply particularly strongly to women or BIPOC faculty members, raising equity concerns. Student surveys often work best as formative assessments to help faculty members improve their teaching, rather than as summative assessments to measure and compare faculty performance. (We believe that other groups or individuals on campus have been collecting such evidence, which could be collated and shared).
- Note the current system for conducting electronic student surveys will no longer work under Colleague. The system and procedures will therefore have to be re-examined for the Fall term anyway.
- Making student surveys optional for RTP procedures would have to be a matter for negotiations.
- However, it would still be within the purview of Senate to revise the current survey form to ensure the questions asked align with best practices.
- Workshops or other guidance could be made available to help faculty who are interested in other methods of documenting their teaching activities for RTP purposes, and / or assessing their teaching effectiveness for their own formative professional development. Examples might include:
 - Guidance on development of effective formative student surveys;
 - Guidance on developing effective teaching dossiers;
 - Procedures to help facilitate classroom observation by peers and/or academic administrators;
 - More opportunities to obtain professional training, mentoring, and / or peer support around teaching issues.

Committee: Interdisciplinary Program Committee (IDST) Ad Hoc Committee of Senate

- (c) the support of IDST programs through curriculum visibility, flexibility, and procedures such as systematic cross-listing and cross-coding;
- (d) mechanisms by which departments will be advantaged by supporting interdisciplinary studies and programs.

BE IT FURTHER MOVED THAT the proposed committee be composed of a representative from each of the IDST programs chosen by the respective IDST program, as well as a faculty representative from each of the faculties, elected via the appropriate faculty elections officer and a student preferably from an IDST program and chosen by the SRC.

Motion to form committee passed at Senate April 10, 2023:

Whereas the Act of Incorporation defines the power of Senate as being “to control, regulate and determine the educational policy of Acadia University, and, with the approval of the Board of Governors insofar as the expenditure of funds and the establishment of faculties are concerned, may create such faculties, schools, departments, and institutes...as the Senate may determine,” and to “determine the courses of study and standards of admission” to Acadia University;

Whereas the provincial government has expressed an interest in having Acadia establish a Nursing Program with an initial intake of students as early as September 2023;

Whereas this proposal represents an important opportunity for Acadia to expand its educational offerings and help to address Nova Scotia's ongoing healthcare challenges;

Whereas a Nursing Program may have a significant impact on the current educational offerings and distribution of resources within multiple academic units within the university;

Therefore an ad hoc Nursing Program Steering Committee shall be struck to consider the establishment of a Nursing Program at Acadia University and to make to the Senate whatever recommendations related to the program it deems fit. This shall include recommendations regarding the suitability of establishing such a program, its curriculum, appropriate structure and faculty home, and any other matters related to educational policy. The committee shall have authority to consult where appropriate with relevant individuals and academic units at Acadia University and other colleges and universities. The committee will receive from the Provost a description of how resources could be allocated to address the corresponding needs of existing and new academic units. The committee shall receive from and provide assistance to the Provost around discussions with Government of Nova Scotia and any other appropriate bodies as the committee may deem necessary.

This committee shall consist of the Provost, the Dean of Pure and Applied Sciences, Dean of Professional Studies, the chair of the Senate Curriculum Committee (Policy), one faculty representative from the Biology Department, and one faculty representative from each of the Faculty of Pure & Applied Sciences, the Faculty of Arts, the Faculty of Professional Studies, and the Library. The members shall select a Chair of the committee.

The committee shall investigate this matter with all deliberate speed and shall make regular reports to Senate on its progress.
