- d) Faculty elections will be by secret ballot and normally will be held in March and April of each year.
- e) The nomination of any and all candidates must be supported in writing by at least one full time member of Faculty. Furthermore, all candidates must state in writing their willingness to offer, and if elected, to serve.

candidate. Where voters cast fewer than the number of vacancies to be filled, such ballots will still be counted.

- j) Where there is a single vacancy to be filled, the winning candidate must receive a majority of the votes cast.
 - 1) Where there is only a single nominee for the vacancy, that nominee is elected by acclamation.
 - 2) Where there are two nominees, there shall be a single ballot to determine the winner.

- k) Where there are two or more vacancies to be filled, the winning candidate must receive a majority of the votes cast. A majority in such instances is the total number of votes divided by twice the total number of vacancies to be filled with the addition of one to the result. If this final total is not a whole number, the next higher whole number is taken.
 - 1) Where no candidates are elected after the first ballot, the second and, if necessary, subsequent ballots shall include one more candidate than there are vacancies to be filled. Those candidates with the highest vote totals will be included on the second and subsequent ballots.
 - 2) Where one or more candidates are elected after the first ballot, but one or more vacancies remain to be filled, the second and, if necessary, subsequent ballots shall include one more candidate than there are vacancies still to be filled. Those candidates with the highest vote totals among the remaining candidates will be included on the second and subsequent ballots.
 - 3) Where more candidates receive a majority of votes (as defined above) than vacancies exist, those candidates with the higher vote totals shall be declared elected.

- 4) Where there are two or more vacancies of different duration, those candidates who are elected on an earlier ballot or with more votes on the same ballot shall receive the longer term of office.
- l) The Elections Officer shall not vote in Faculty elections except in order to break ties.
- m) Electronic nominations and election processes under the auspices of the faculty Elections Officer, constitute sufficient means for nominations and secret ballots
